

Ipanema travels to...

inspiration for travel

ABOUT THE BLOG

Ipanema travels to... is all about travelling while still having a full-time 9 to 5 job. My goal is to inspire people to travel more and to choose for less known destinations away from the mass tourism. On my blog, I feature only personal experience in the form of city guides or itineraries for short trips and weekend escapes. I am interested in off-the-beaten track destinations and I am keen on spreading the word about anything local and particular that would help grow the tourism in the region.

ABOUT THE BLOGGER

My name is Daniela and I am the blogger behind the scenes of Ipanema travels to... No, I am not a professional traveller, neither have I left my job to become a digital nomad, I am just a regular woman with a regular 9 to 5 corporate job who loves to travel. I have a degree in Linguistics and a former career in Translation.

So far, I have visited 30 countries, still 166 to go. Will this lifetime be enough? Yes, I hope so. I love to travel, I love to take pictures and I love to tell stories!
